

Handbook for Allied Health Researchers

ISBN: 978-0-9592484-8-7

Edited by Professor Alison Perry, Professor Meg Morris and Dr Sue Cotton

The Menzies Foundation has published a Handbook for Allied Health Researchers. The Handbook, designed to promote research in clinical practice and to assist new researchers to “get started”, is the result of a multi-disciplinary collaboration across Allied Health disciplines including psychologists, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists and social workers.

Details on the contents and contributors are overleaf. The cost is $33 plus postage.

We believe that the volume will be of interest to students, researchers and academics, including those who are not directly involved in one of the allied health disciplines.
