

Handbook for Allied Health Researchers

ISBN: 978-0-9592484-8-7

Edited by Professor Alison Perry, Professor Meg Morris and Dr Sue Cotton

The Menzies Foundation has recently published a Handbook for Allied Health Researchers. The Handbook, designed to promote research in clinical practice and to assist new researchers to “get started”, is the result of a multi-disciplinary collaboration across Allied Health disciplines including psychologists, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists and social workers.

Details on the contents and contributors are overleaf. The cost is $33 (incl GST) plus postage.

We believe that the volume will be of interest to students, researchers and academics, including those who are not directly involved in one of the allied health disciplines.
